Artists statement

In my work I try to explore how different aspects of life are functioning within a range of patterns, shapes and structures.

Matter is in a constant state of flux. Objects take on different aspects, they change shapes... Similar structures appear in different places.

How do they relate to each other? How did they evolve, to become what they are?

Can we control, or at least influence this process?

Everything stems from the same common element (atom), but exposed to diverse situations, things develop differently. Nevertheless, finally they can resemble each other

- Chaos seems to be organised...
